Notes for Bennie Day:

By Mikie Key:

Bernice Odella Day's mother, Mattie Price Day, died when she was a very small child about 1912. Her father, Barney L. Day, married another woman shortly after Mattie died and left Bernice with her aunt Arra Smart (Charlie Smart was her daddy) in Quitman.

Barney went to Sulphur Springs area. Mother was raised by her aunt and had a good childhood with her. Barney had another child a son whose name was O.B. Day. Then this second woman died and Barney left O.B. with an aunt to raise him. I do not know what happened. Barney went on to marry another woman, whom I do not know and had 5 children with her and then he died. They lived in the Paris area and I believe Barney may be buried in the Paris area.

Bernice's mother is buried in the Price Cemetary in Quitman, Tx. Mother was a tiny woman, only 4'11" tall. Red hair and the temper to go with it when she was riled. O.B. was red headed also. Bernice and O.B. were close and I remember O.B. and his family as one of my favored uncles.

Bernice died at a young age, only 48 years old. Had a heart attack and was gone in minutes. She died in 1957. This date is September 28, 2007, next month in November she will be gone 50 years.

I loved my mother very much and still miss her after all this time. She did get to see 4 grandchildren before she died.

Notes for O B Day:

By Mickie Key

My mother's half brother was Uncle O.B. I guess he was my favorite uncle. He was tall, lanky, and red headed. His better half was my Aunt Modine. They were a pair! I loved them both dearly

Uncle O.B. loved his garden. Usually had about 5 acres of garden. Worked it with a tractor of course. He would plant everything and Aunt Modine would either can or freeze the harvest. They had about 5 freezers, always packed. Fresh meat and lovely vegs. Watermelons, etc were always perfect.

Uncle O.B. worked with cement for Austin Bridge Co. for years in Dallas. He worked on the triple underpass in downtown Dallas. The one where John Kennedy was killed. In fact he worked all over the city of Dallas. He taught his two sons the trade and they always made a good living at it.

I truly miss Uncle O.B. and Aunt Modine. He loved to come over to our house when we lived in Red Oak and talk farming with my husband and often would go out on the land with Clyde to work. We picked, shucked, and put up about 5 bushels of corn on the cob, corn off the cob, just about any way you could fix corn! We had a good time shucking the corn by the light of the moon and the porch light one night in July!
