Notes for O B Day:

By Mickie Key

My mother's half brother was Uncle O.B. I guess he was my favorite uncle. He was tall, lanky, and red headed. His better half was my Aunt Modine. They were a pair! I loved them both dearly

Uncle O.B. loved his garden. Usually had about 5 acres of garden. Worked it with a tractor of course. He would plant everything and Aunt Modine would either can or freeze the harvest. They had about 5 freezers, always packed. Fresh meat and lovely vegs. Watermelons, etc were always perfect.

Uncle O.B. worked with cement for Austin Bridge Co. for years in Dallas. He worked on the triple underpass in downtown Dallas. The one where John Kennedy was killed. In fact he worked all over the city of Dallas. He taught his two sons the trade and they always made a good living at it.

I truly miss Uncle O.B. and Aunt Modine. He loved to come over to our house when we lived in Red Oak and talk farming with my husband and often would go out on the land with Clyde to work. We picked, shucked, and put up about 5 bushels of corn on the cob, corn off the cob, just about any way you could fix corn! We had a good time shucking the corn by the light of the moon and the porch light one night in July!

O B Day had the following child:

19. i. LIVING DAY.
